TELEGRAPHED BOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. FROM THE UNITED STATES

RICHMOND, June 3 .- Northern dates to the lat received.

Dispatches from Grant to the 25th receiveed at the War Department, represent the seige as progressing satisfactorily, and that he is abundantly able to maintain the investment and repel any attack on his

A dispatch from Vicksburg on the afterneon of the 26th says, no further fighting since Monday.

A dispatch from Murfreesboro' on the 28th states that Grant since Sunday made something like a general attack upon the rebel works, but failed to carry them, and had thereupon concluded the place was too strong to be taken by assault, and had opened a terrible, sustained fire with ar-

Another dispatch of the 26th states that on the evening of that day Pemberton had asked a truce for two hours and a half to bury his dead, which we granted.

CAIRO, 31st .- A dispatch says the fighting on Monday lasted six hours. The battle was renewed on Tuesday. Few, if any, of our batteries have been taken. Banks' forces have not arrived. 4400 prisoners expected to-night. They will be sent to Indianapolis.

The Herald says that according to la test advices Pemberton will be able to hold out till Johnston raises the seige and engages Grant in battle, LATER. RICHMOND, June 4 .- Porters official dispatch states that the expedition sent up the Yazoo destroyed and captured property valued at two millions of dollars, including three powerful rams, one monster 310 feet long, unfinished. The Federal loss was one killed and seven wounded.

Gen. Burnside has communicated to Gen. Bragg his determination to hang all rebel officers in his hands in case of retaliation for the two spies tried and executed according to the usages of war.

News from Europe to the 19th has been received. In the House of Lords Marquis Clauricaide denounced the seizure of british vessels by United States cruisers as a violation of the laws of nations, Russell defended the cause of the American Government. He said all their communications showed they fully respect international law. The law-officers of the Crown report no national ground of objection to the decisions of the prize Courts. Lord Derby fully concurred. Russell thought every allowance ought to be made for provocation.

FROM VICKSBURG.

Jackson, June 3 .- All was quiet at Vicksburg-yesterday. There was no firing Grant is evidently making preparations for a movement in some direction. The siege of Vicksburg so far is very encouraging to us. The enemy have been repulsed with immense slaughter in every attempt to storm our works. Grant will be compelled to raise the seige in a few days. The reported returning to Grand Gulf or storming of our works is looked for within the next forty-eight hours. The Memphis Bulletin, of the 30th, claims 5,000 prisoners at Young's Point. The News from Vicksburg is not considered stimulating. The slaughter on the part of the Federals is not so large as at first supposed.

The place is closely invested, and no apprehensions are felt as to the result .-The greatest confidence is telt in regard to the result at Vicksburg.

FROM MOBILE.

Mosile, June 4 .- Refugees at Pascagoula report another brilliant victory at Port Hudson. Banks is said to have lost

"The corn crops in Alabama and Western Georgia are in a most flourishing condition, and promises an abundant yield. The late rains have been very beneficial

ANOTHER FIRE IN WILMINGTON .WILMINGTON, June 3 .- A fire broke out in this city at 11 o'clock last night, destroying the residences of James Dawson and T. D. Walker, both valuable buildings-the latter particularly so. They were insured.

FEDERALS IN ALABAMA. -The Atlanta Commonwealth says:

The Huntsville Daily Confederate of the 20th ultimo says that on Thursday a telegram was received that 3,000 Yankees were at Florence. On Friday Col. Roddy crossed the river with a force equal to the enemy's. On Thursday night a bright light was seen in the direction of Florence, supposed to proceed from the burning of the cetten and woolen factories near Florence. The following is the latest intelligence. We are indebted to the Hon. L. P. Walker for the following dispatch to Tuscumbia, May 30 .- The last heard of the enemy, he was at Gravelly Springs in this (Lauderdale) county, retreating, Col, Roddy pursuing. They burned all of Martin, Weakly & Co's factories, Masonic Hall, and some other buildings, in JNO. M. POWERS, Florence.

Gravelly Springs is about 17 miles below Florence, on the road to Waterleo on the Tennessee River. The factories burned consume annually in manufacturing about 4,000 bales of cotton, we understand, STONEWALL JACKSON IN MEXICO .- The newspaper sketchess of Stonewall Jackson's early professional life are necessarily mesgre as yet, and in some respects inaccurate. Like most artillery officers in the Mexican war, he was very desirous to be transfered to the light artillery, which alone come into play in that war. A correspondent of the Richmond Whig narrates the following:

After the battle of Cerro Gordo, his old comrade, General, then Captain, J. Bankhaed Magrader, was placed in command of a battery of six light piece. Captain Magruder, 1st Artillery, had led the storming party under Gen. Harney up the heights of Cerro Gorde. He was the first artillery officer who entered the enemy's works, sword in hand-had captured the guns and turned them on the retreating foe. Gen. Scott rode into the works and addressisg Capt. M., said: "Captain you have won these guns; they are yours; your ardent wish for a light battery can now be gratified. Take these guns and mount them. They shall henceforth be Magruder's battery." When the army avanced beyond Contreras towards the city of Mexico, Lieutenant Jacksen reported to Captain Magruder for duty in his battery, having obtained at last the desired transfer to the light artillery. Magruder placed him immediately in command of a section of the battery and conscious of his skill and courage, assigned him to a separate position in the assault on the city, With characteristic valor and impetuosity, he boldly assailed the defence at the San Cosme gate of the city, and contributed powerfully, by his skillful and well directed fire, to the subsequent capture of the Capitol. His signal services were duly chronieled in the official report of Capt. Magruand the formal and full report of Gen. Scott, as the records of the United States will show. The motive of his ardent desire to join Magruder's battery was stated by him to a friend at the close of the war, and is characteristic He said: "I wanted to see active service. I wished to be near the enemy, and in the fight; and when I heard John Magruder had got his battery, I bent all my energies to be with him, for I knew if there was any fighting to be dene, Magruder would be en hand.' Stonewall Jackson.

The Rev. Dr. Moore, of Richmond, in sermon in memory of the much loved and lamented Stonewall Jackson, narrates the following incidents:

Previous to the first battle of Manassas. when the troops under the command of Stonewall Jackson had made a forced march, on halting at night they fell on the ground exhausted and faint. The hour arrived for setting the watch for the night. The officer of the day went to the General's tent, and said-

"General, the men are all wearied, and there is not one but is asleep. Shall I

"No," said the noble Jackson, "let them sleep, and I will watch the camp tonight."

And all night long he rode round that lonely camp, the one lone sentinel for that brave, but weary and silent body of Virginia heroes, And when glorious mornng broke, the soldiers woke refreshed and ready for action, all unconscious of the noble vigils kept over their slumber.

The night preceeding that on which he received his wounds, General Jackson and his staff were in the open air. without tents. One of his aids prevailed on the General to accept of him a light covering. In the night, however, when all were wrapt in deep sleep, Jackson arose, and gently laying the covering over the young aid, he lay down again and slept without any protection whatever. In the morning he awoke with a cold, which brought on the attack, eventually causing his death. from pneumenia.

IMPORTANT RUMOR .- A gentleman of this city who arrived last evening from Montgomery, Ala., says that when he left that place, there was a report from Vicksburg that Pemberten made a feint of evacuating part of his works, when the enemy rushed in, only to be met with immense slaughter from artillery placed so as to take them with a raking fire. It is also reported that Johnson has an army of 40,000 men ready to move upon Grant's rear .- Montgomery Daily Confederate, June 1.

Though years have passed, yet as yester day it seems,
Since I wandered on my dear native shore.

There the laurel and magnolia spread their welcome shade, And the gasmine droops her golden bells; Telling by their fragrance of the forest

And ever be their buckler and their shield Edie, the Charleston Thief. James A. Edie was charged with stealing eighteen thousand six hundred dollars from James H. Taylor, of Charleston. The accused was a red-headed, intelligent looking fellow. The circumstances of the theft and arrest are briefly as follows: On Friday, the 15th of May, the accused being at the time a clerk in the employment of Mr. Taylor, in the city of (harleston, absconded with the proceeds of an account which had been entrusted to him for collection, amounting to $18,600 45. On the same night he wrote Mr. Taylor a letter purporting to be dated aboard the blockade running steamer Britania, bound for Nassau, N. P., confessing that he had appropriated the amount of money aforesaid. Subsequently to this time, however, Mr. Taylor received information which induced him to believe that the accused was still within the limits of the Confederacy. He therefore advertised the absconding clerk, giving a description of his person, and offering a thousand dollars for his apprehension, and a bonus of one-fourth of all money recovered through his arrest. The advertisement described him as "a Canadian by birth, 30 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches high, florid complexion and reddish hair," and stated in addition that he had been a member of the Washington Light Intantry Volunteers, and was wounded in the hand at the battle of Seven Repairing to the house they found the accused, and were satisfied, from his correspondence with the description given of him in the advertisement, that he was the Charleston thief. He had the traces of a wound in the hand, which he confessed he had received at Seven Pines: said he had belonged to the Washington Light Intentry Volunteers, was from Charleston and knew Mr. Taylor. But he positively denied having taken any money from Mr. Taylor. He further informed the officers that he was putting up at the Powhatan House, was a British subject. and had designed going North on the previque day, but that a woman named Mollie, who had become very auddenly enamored of him, had stolen his pass and other papers, and thereby delayed his departure. AMERICAN STREET

Mr. Taylor, at Charleston, the circumstances of the arrest. The case will be called up again on Saturday. Before putting the prisoner in jail the officers searched his person and found one hundred and twenty-five dollars. Subsequently they learned from the clerk of the Powhatan House, that the prisoner had left in his charge a package which, on being opened, was found to contain eight thousand dollars in State bank notes. Star bank notes being at a premium of se venty cen's, this package accounts for rearly the whole amount stolen from Mr. Taylor.

The prisoner is said to have been living nost sumptously since his arrival in Richnond, spending money right and left in wine and women .- Richmond Examiner.

CHARLOTTE. Saturday Morning, June 6, 1863.

Our Wheat Crop.

We have in our office, for the inspection of those who take an interest in our wheat crop, and every man, woman and child are personally interested, -for it is indisndependence.

The sample is from the farm of Wm. F. Phifer, Esq., and, as we are informed, it is not an extra specimen of the crop, we must conclude he is making the best crop of wheat we have ever seen. The specimen is undoubtedly the finest ever exhibited in our presence, and we are pleased to learn, from various sources, that all our farmers are equally successful. We hope so, for upon them are our armies and non-producers at home entirely dependent.

The Simonton House.

It will be seen, on reference to advertisenent in another column, that this popular House, located in Statesville, is again opened for the accommodation of the travelling public. The proprietor, we are pleased to state, is well quallified to cater for the public.

The Iredell Express referring to the reopening of this house says : .

"This large and commodious hotel is located in the centre of business, and affording a most desirable and constortable home for families and has been reopene under the management of Mr. M. E Hyams, lessee. Statesville is one of the most mer residence in the State-in full view o the grand mountain scenery of North Carolina-and Mr. Hyams is a landlord who will spare no pains to make his guests comfortable and render his hotel one of the most popular in Western North Caro-

Saltpetre.

We have been advised that orders have been issued to Wm. F. Schirmer, Supt C. S. Sulphuric acid works neaf Charlotte, to use every effort to procure material for the manufacture of Saltpetre, and that it is desired our fellow citizens give every encouragement they may be able to afford to further the object had in view. This may be done by allowing the removal of the surface soil from under-old buildings (when deposites may be found in great abundance,) and the semoval of which could not injure the value of the property. It is to be expected that all persons owning property in Charlotte will promptly advise Mr. Schirmer where and when he may begin operations, as it is important the orders of the War Department be promptly carried out. The materials are to be procured, and property holders will find it to their advantage to grant promptly and cheerfully every accommodation in their power to render to the Government.

Horse Shoe Bend Battle, Ky.,

A correspondent of the Atlanta Confed. eracy gives the annexed account of the "Horse Shee Bend" battle, which lately occurred in Kentucky: "You have, no doubt, heard before this of our late Kentucky trip, and of the brisk race and fight which our command had at Horse Shoe Bend," on the Cumberland river. Gen. Morgan received orders on the 4th of this month to take his command and drive back the Yankees who were reforce, and moving down on East Tennes- good character by several witnesses, see. Our men were greatly delighted at though on the occasion in question he got the prospect of once more operating inde- a little tight. He was sent to prison for pendently. You can hardly imagine the spirit which it appeared to infuse through the whole command. The rivers were much swollen, so much so that we were obliged to swim them, but they offered no impediment to men who felt like birds uncaged. By rapid and severe marches, for four days, during most of the time getting nothing to eat either for horses or men, we overtook the enemy near Monticello. Our advance came up with them just as they were about to imprison in a smoke house s number of citizens, whose wives and famiies were imploring their release. We succeeded in capturing this party, consisting of a Lieutenant and fitteen men, and pushstrong position in a bend of the river, and were awaiting our approach. By 20'clock on Sunday, the 10th, a portion of five of our regiments had arrived and were immediately formed into line of battle. Before ammunition could be distributed their artiflery opened on us. This, for a moment. caused a thrill to pass along the entire line, but not a man flinched, The order was at once given to charge, and determinedly and steadily our men moved up After receiving the enemy's fire, our men raised a yell and rushed on faster. We pushed on until the rugged and precipitous nature of prevented further pursuit. "This is about the whole history of the fight. It was quickly done, the enemy be-jail, and ordered the police to telegraph to buried 26 of their men. Our own less we - killed and 37 wounded.

The Yankees were so sure of whipping us that they had the imprinence to attempt a charge, crying out as they approached, 'Where are your Morgan horse thieves!' Where is your brave John H.I' Our men so on showed them where they by the minnions of Lincoln tyranny. were, ar 1 don't think they will take such pain", to call for us again."

Doings in New Orleans.

Mr. Callander an elderly journeyman rinter who was banished from the city recently along with other citizens, because of loyalty to the Contederate States, furnishes the Montgomery Mail with the following clipping from New Orleans papers.

DRAWING FLAGS .- It having come to the knowledge of the police that the young ladies in several private seminaries amused themselves by drawing secession flags with colored pencils in their copy books, a couple of specials went out for the patriotic purpose of making discoveries. In three schools the work of these youthful political transgressors was found, to wit: in Miss Hull's school on Carondelet street; pensable as an auxiliary in working out our in M'me Locquet's school on Campt street; and in the school kept by Miss Picot and her mother, on Julis street. The case of Miss Hull was the first one disposed of by Judge Hughes. She said she was an English subject and held a British protection. Special officer Ford testified that he had made the search of Miss Hull's premises under orders, and found the emblem of secession on the covers of several books and in the scholar's desks. While making the search some of the girls attempted to hide their flags. Miss Hull stated that the first intimation that she had of the search was the entrance of the specials. She made no objection to the search. Some of the children, she admitted, might have torne some of the leaves out of their books, but she denied that there was any general movement of that kind. The court thought the case a grave one, and as the accused seemed cognizant of these rebel emblems among her pubils, she was required to pay a fine

M'me Locquet, whose school is situated at 280 Camp street, told the officers, when they made the search and discovered some of the rebel emblems in her scholars' books that it was none of her concern, that she did not teach politics, or interfere with the political sentiments of those under her charge. She we believe, is a French lady, and claims a French protection. In passing sentence on her the Judge observed that the offence deserved a severe punishment. He thought he had been too lenient in the case of Miss Hull, and in the present case wounld require a fine of $250 to be paid.

Miss Picot, the principal of the school on Julia street, said that both she and her mother had tried to keep down all expressions of political feelings in the school. The existence of the rebel crayons was, however, proved and the ladies were required to pay a fine of $150.

A few more clippings from New Orleans papers of doing before the Provost Court of the mean, vindictive Yankees.

CONFEDERATE HANDKERCHIEFS .- William McJones was arrested yesterday and and takea before Provost Marshal Kilburne, on a charge of having in his possession a pocket handkerchief ornamented with two Confederate flags delicately wrought in fancy needlework. One was the "Bonnie Blue Flag" and the other the "Red, White and Red,"

Sarah Haughery and Josephine Farredy. who reside on Liberty street, took the liberty of singing the "Bonnie Blue Flag." talking secesh, and cursing Unionists. The accused denied the allegations, and averred that the charge originated in spite and personal malice. Witnesses, however, corroborated the complaint in every particular, and thereupon Sarah was fined $15 and Josephine $25.

J. B. Bobet, who cursed Lincoln on the fast day, said that he had been, and alported as having crossed the river in large | ways would be, secesh. He was given a thirty days.

Thomas Hickey was up for telling a soldier that he was a d-d rebel, and said he would like to shoot down every Yankee in the city. He was terribly tight and confessed everything. In fact he said that he did not know what he had said. He was sent to prison for sixty days.

YANKEE RAID ON COMBAHEE. - A despatch from Pocotaligo, Tuesday morning, reported that a party of Yankees had made their appearance, and were destroying the pontoon bridge at Combahee Ferry, besides burning some houses on the banks. About three hundred, the despatch said, had also landed at Field's Point, probably a division of a part of their force to cover the burning operations of the others on Combahee river. Later in the day, it was reported that the enemy, after visiting several plantations and destroying considerable property, had gone back. They were still hovering around, however, up to a late hour in the evening. The force making the raid is believed to be small. They have kept close to their boats on the river banks. Our forces are prepared for them should they attempt to move up. further inland. It was reported last night that they had burnt the residence of Mr. A. Burnet, and had visited the plantations, the ground and the approaching darkness of Mr. Heyward and Mr. Blake, and one or two others, doing considerable mischief. They are no doubt endeavoring to imitate the Abolition raids recently made ing driven across the river, leaving their in other Southern States.—Charleston in Charlotter dead and wounded in our hands. THE INFAMOUS YANKEES .- From all quarters we see orders issued by Yankee officers requiring sympathizers with the Confederates to leave their lines. As the men cannot be whipped, women and children are warred upon and driven from their homes, which are left to be destroyed Finding they cannot induce the Southern people to admit Yankee rule, the villainous officers are showing their authority by every species of atrocity they can practice upon them. No respect paid to private property, and even churches are destroyed and the sacramental plate stolen by the vandals. The robes and sermons of venerable Bishops are torn and scattered to the winds, and every species of devastation encouraged by the contemptable hire-

The condition of our friends in Southern cities now in the enemy's lines have been most intamously oppressive in every possible way, and it can scarcely be realized that it has been endured. The belief has become general that the gentle defensive policy of our government should be abandoned, and that the enemy should be made to feel the war where they can appreciate it. The loss of hirlings is nothing to them and the destruction of our home steads and farms is but their pastimes and amusement. Let our troops carry the war into Pennsylvania, and let the farmers feel the loss of their homes, crops and property and something will be gained. The time for retaliation has arrived and the responsibility has been heavy on the Government for much of the past losses and sufferings. Lit it no longer hesitate to go forward and "hight fire with fire." It is stated, with assertion of fact, that Stonewall Jackson was from the first of the war the advocate of "the black flag." We have long believed that policy would have saved lives and shorten the war. The course of the vandals shows that it will yet have to be adopted. At the battle of Chancellorsville, the Yankees stated that they could have taken more prisoners, but prefered to shoot them .- South Caros

BURTON, ARNOLD & CO. country's cause in the memorable and sands of her noblest sons, and many a hill and valley has been made red with her best blood in this our second struggle for freedom, but she never presented one more willing to do his duty than the subject of this sketch. He was highly appreciated; both at home and in his company, for his eminently social and intellectual acquire ments. He was patriotically and devotedly attached to the interest of his country; this he demonstrated by being among the first to answer the call of his country. He was with the old 3d, now the 13th, in her first and among the bloodiest battles of the war, at Williamsburg, where he fell into the hands of the enemy, seriously wounded. After lying in a Northern prison undergoing intense suffering he was exchanged in the July following. First of January, 1863, he rejoined his company hardly sufficiently recovered from his wounds, for duty, yet eager to be with his comrades to aid in keeping back the insolent foe. He bore without murmuring the fatigue of camp life, during the severe snow storms that fell in the latter part of the winter, which those who experienced them will never forget. In the hard confested battle of Chancellorsville he stood firmly with his company while charging the enemy's breast works, when early in the morning he received the fatal stroke which caused his death on the following morning (Sunday). . He was a citizen of Mecklenburg county, N. C., and leaves a father, brothers. sisters and a large circle of friends to mourn

OF THE STATE JOURNAL

TAVING become the proprietor of the Democratic Press. I have merged that paper into the STATE JOURNAL, which will be published Semi-Weekly and Weekly.

The STATE JOURNAL will advocate Democratic principles in the broadest sense, and will support and defend Democratic measures and their advocates as they are presented, and as occasion may require. In other casentials it will be my aim to make the paper, what its name denotes, a State Journal—exchange all sectional considerations and working for the entire State and her common interests.
